A general principle of teaching and law of the Catholic Church is that a person is bound by a valid marriage until death. However, through the centuries the Catholic Church has had to deal with the practical question of the status of those whose marriages have failed. In most cases a failed previous marriage must be shown to have been invalid at the time of the original wedding. There are a number of ways in church law in which a marriage might be invalid.

This form is designed to help you present a petition for the Tribunal to the Diocese of Lubbock (the local church court) to begin an investigation of the validity of a now terminated marriage. This form also will assist the court in determining what type of case might be pursued. Therefore, it is critical for you and your case to provide complete information as applies to your situation. This information and certain required documents will form the foundation of your case.

I, the undersigned person, petition the Tribunal of the Diocese of Lubbock to declare invalid the marriage between my former spouse(s) and myself. For that purpose I submit the following information.
